United Way Welcomes Two New Board Members; Board Elects New Officers

Anchorage AK – Daniel Mitchell of CIRI and Dr. Thomas Yetman of Providence Medical Group Alaska have joined the board of directors of United Way of Anchorage.

Mitchell is chief financial officer at CIRI, where he oversees the Finance and Accounting and Business Development departments. Before joining CIRI in 2018, Mitchell was a managing director at KPMG, LLP's Anchorage office. There he provided auditing and accounting services to Alaska-based companies including airlines, construction, financial services, government contracting, oil and gas, state pension and investment funds and utilities. He holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Alaska Anchorage and is a certified public accountant.

Yetman, a Navy veteran with more than 30 years in the health-care field, is chief executive officer of Providence Medical Group Alaska, which provides primary and specialty care through Providence Alaska Medical Center and The Children's Hospital at Providence. Before joining Providence here in 2018, he served as CEO and chief medical officer at Providence Medical Group Northwest Washington. An obstetrician/gynecologist, Yetman holds a bachelor's degree in biology from the University of California San Diego and a medical degree from George Washington University.

The United Way board's new officers are Belinda Breaux, chair, of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co.; Natasha Pope, vice chair, First National Bank Alaska; Beth Stuart, treasurer, KPMG; and Mike Dunn, secretary, Hilcorp Alaska.
