WARM HEARTS WARM HOMES lights a candle to keep utilities paid

Campaign aims to help struggling families with gas, electric and water bills

Anchorage AK – Inspired by a generous donor on the Kenai Peninsula, ENSTAR Natural Gas Company and United Way of Anchorage have teamed up to launch the WARM HEARTS WARM HOMES Utility Assistance Fund to keep heat and lights on and water running for Southcentral Alaskans.

Even with rental and food assistance, thousands of Alaskan families are still struggling in the deep recession of the COVID-19 pandemic. When you don't have a job or go out of business, bills mount fast and across the board. Thousands of low to moderate-income Alaskan families lived paycheck-to-paycheck before the pandemic. When there's no paycheck, and unemployment assistance doesn't cover the budget, it can be hard to find a dollar to stretch, and that missing dollar might have covered heat, lights, and water.

The anonymous donor on the Kenai has seen the need and given $10,000 to help cover utilities. ENSTAR has matched that $10,000 and with United Way has launched WARM HEARTS WARM HOMES.

"We know the financial hardship brought by the pandemic continues for many Alaskans.," said Lindsay Hobson, Communications Director for ENSTAR. "And so does the generosity of Alaskans looking out for one another."

"Our work will not be finished until the virus is gone and Alaska's economic recovery is complete," said Clark Halvorson, President of United Way. "If you have the ability, please consider making a donation as we come together again to keep hearts and homes warm."

If you can help, the easiest way is online at liveunitedanc.org/warmhearts. There you can direct or split your donation – there are separate donation buttons for Anchorage and the Mat-Su and for the Kenai Peninsula.

If you need help, the easiest way to get connected is to call Alaska 2-1-1 at 2-1-1 or 1-800-478-2221 or email Alaska211@ak.org.
